博弈論．論博弈：當經濟學遇上棋藝

初看之下，經濟學似乎離不開市場、供給曲線與金融數據，而棋藝則只是一場在方寸棋盤上展開的競賽。然而，兩者在核心上卻有著深刻的相通之處：它們本質上都是關於如何在充滿不確定性的環境中做出理性決策，並預判與適應他人的選擇。

本屆大賽的主題，正是要突顯棋盤上的戰略思維如何映照現實世界的決策過程。經濟學探討如何在資源約束下實現效益最大化，而博弈論則專門研究我們的選擇與結果如何取決於他人的互動行為。棋類遊戲正是演繹這一理念的生動實驗場——它訓練棋手走在局勢的前頭、權衡風險，並在行動前預判對手的每一步棋。

一步一落子，皆為一場經濟博弈

修讀經濟學正是將這種「棋盤智慧」應用於現實——培養你分析風險、預判局勢與前瞻規劃的能力，從而應對現實世界中複雜的商業與政策挑戰。

When Economic Game Theory Meets Chess

At first glance, economics may seem solely defined by markets, supply curves, and financial data, while chess is simply a game played on a grid. Yet, at their core, both share a profound connection: they are fundamentally about how we make rational decisions under uncertainty, anticipating and adapting to the choices of others.

The theme of our competition highlights how strategy on the board mirrors real-world decision-making. Economics explores how we optimize outcomes under resource constraints, while Game Theory specifically examines how our choices and outcomes depend on the interactive decisions of others. Board games serve as a vivid, real-world laboratory for this very concept—training players to think several steps ahead, weigh risks, and anticipate an opponent's every move before acting.

Every move on the board, a calculated economic play.

Studying economics equips you with this very chessboard strategy—teaching you to analyze risk, anticipate moves, and plan ahead to solve complex real-world business and policy problems.

什麼是「博弈論」？

「博弈論」（Game Theory）是經濟學中一門研究策略與決策的有趣學問。當你的決定不只影響自己，還會受別人的選擇影響時，這就是一場「博弈」！

「想多幾步」的思維魔術

為什麼棋手總能料敵先機？因為他們在腦海裏進行了無數次的心理模擬：「如果我這樣走，對方的第一反應是甚麼？如果他那樣應對，我又該怎麼反擊……」這種環環相扣的預判，不只是下棋贏得比賽的祕訣，也是經濟學家和企業家制定決策時的核心能力！

競爭與合作的藝術

博弈論不單教我們如何在競爭中獲勝，更教我們理解「互動」。有時候，雙方互不相讓；有時候，尋找共同利益（雙贏）才是最高明的策略。下棋如人生，學會站在對手的角度思考，你會發現世界變得更加清晰！

納許均衡：棋盤上的最佳應對

著名數學家約翰·納許（John Nash）提出：當所有人都選擇了對自己最有利的策略，且沒有人想單方面改變決定時，就達到了「納許均衡」。下棋時，雙方都做出最嚴密、最合理的應對，正是這種智慧的體現！

小提示

下棋時多想兩步，預判對手的選擇，你也是小小經濟學家！

Game Theory Fun Facts

What is Game Theory?

Game Theory is an area of economics that studies strategy and decision-making. Whenever your outcome depends not just on your choice, but also on the choices of others, you are playing a "game"!

The Magic of "Thinking Ahead"

Why do great players always stay one step ahead? Because they run mental simulations in their heads: "If I move here, what will they do? And if they go there, how will I respond?" This chain of "if-then" thinking is not just the secret to winning board games; it's the core skill economists and business leaders use to solve real-world problems!

The Art of Competition & Cooperation

Game Theory doesn't just teach us how to win; it teaches us the power of interaction. Sometimes competition drives us, but other times, finding shared interests (win-win) is the smartest move. Chess is like life—by learning to think from your opponent's perspective, you gain a clearer view of the world!

Mathematician John Nash proposed that when all players choose their best possible strategy, and no one has an incentive to change their move, the game reaches a "Nash Equilibrium". In chess, when both players make the most solid and optimal moves, they are putting this wisdom into practice!

Tip for Young Players

Think two steps ahead and anticipate your opponent's moves—you're thinking like a little economist!
