

MSc. in International Banking and Finance Programme Scholarships AY2010-11 to Economics Students at Lingnan 國際銀行與金融碩士課程獎學金

The Department of Economics offers a Master of Science (MSc) Degree in International Banking and Finance. This is a one-year full-time self-financed taught postgraduate programme. The programme combines theory with a practice in a board-based and internationally oriented curriculum that is tuned in to the fast-changing world of international banking and finance. To encourage students to pursue further study in economics and finance, the Department of Economics has established a number of scholarships in effective from the academic year 2008-09.

The two full scholarships (are each worth HK$150,000). Students from Contemporary Economic and Public Policy Stream (CEPP) and/or the Economics Discipline Concentration (Econ DC) of Lingnan University with good academic performance are eligible to apply.

If you are interested in applying the MIBF Programme in AY2010-11, please submit your application for admission and programme scholarship on or before 29 January 2010 (Friday). Successful candidates will be notified within two weeks after the submission deadline.
