

ILP Course Name	Introduction of Services of the Selective Placement Division of the Labour Department (LD)
CRN	CRN5519
Mode	Online Zoom
Date	25 Sept 2020 (Fri)
Time	15:00 - 16:00
Speaker/Organisation	Mr Chan Hing Wah, Simon, Employment Consultant, LD Miss Lau Ho Siu, Janet, Employment Consultant, LD Miss Ng Tsz Ying, Alison, Employment Consultant, LD
Language	English
Event Details	The Selective Placement Division of the Labour Department provides a free recruitment service to employers and free employment service to job seekers with disabilities such as visual impairment, hearing impairment, physical impairment, chronic illness, intellectual disability, ex-mental illness, autism spectrum disorder, specific learning difficulties, and attention-deficit / hyperactivity disorder. Its objective is to assist people with disabilities in securing jobs in open employment that best suit their abilities, skills, qualifications, and experience, aiming to integrate them into the community and help them be financially independent. This talk will be especially useful to students with disabilities. The speaker of this talk will give a detailed introduction to the services available from the Selective Placement Division of the Labour Department. Special job-hunting skills that are specific to job seekers with disabilities will also be delineated.