Beyond the Resume: The Hidden Psychology of University Interviews

履歷之外的決勝點：大學面試的洞察與心理學

A university interview isn't just a performance— it's a two-way street.

In this talk, we'll dive beneath the surface to explore what interviewers are actually looking for, backed by psychological research and real-world experience from both sides of the interview desk.

1. The Psychology of the Panel: Decoding what interviewers look for beyond the resume.
2. The Winning Strategy: Proven, practical ways to stand out authentically.
3. Leveling the Playing Field: How understanding the interview process promotes educational equality.

Speaker Introduction

Professor Alan Lee

Prof. Alan Lee is an Associate Professor of Psychology and the Associate Dean (Undergraduate Studies) of Social Sciences at Lingnan University. He earned his PhD in Psychology from UCLA and subsequently worked at École Normale Supérieure in Paris and Nanyang Technological University in Singapore before joining Lingnan. As a cognitive scientist, his research focuses on metacognition—our ability to reflect on and make judgments about our own cognitive processes.
