From Lingnan, You Carry More Than a Degree

STUDENT

MANAV JHAVERI

Finance (Year 3)

Graduated from King George V School

The most valuable networking and career-building opportunity I gained through Lingnan was attending the Ernst & Young networking event, which secured me an extendable three-month audit/assurance internship for 2025. I also participated in HKIB's Future Banking Bridging Programme, where I was elected as one of the 10 group leaders out of 300 participants.

ESCUETA FRANCHESCA JANA E

Psychology (Counselling Psychology) (Year 4)

Graduated from Discovery College

My student exchange took place in Manchester, where I was immersed in a vibrant, inclusive, and diverse learning environment. Navigating a foreign environment challenged me to be more resilient, adaptable, and independent. This transformative experience has significantly contributed to my personal growth, benefiting my future academic and professional endeavours!

ALUMNUS

NATHAN NAIDU

Economics

Equity Research Analyst, Bloomberg London

Lingnan University was a place of self-discovery for me, much like a sandbox—a term commonly used in the tech industry to signify a testing environment for untested software. I was the untested software. I achieved these things by leveraging the university's resources—the same resources that are at your disposal. To me, this is equally as important as studying well. Take your time at Lingnan as an opportunity to explore and discover yourself.

ALUMNUS

JEFFREY TRINH

Management Consultant, McKinsey & Company, New York City

Moving abroad for the first time, I found a welcoming, close-knit community that fostered both my personal and intellectual growth. The liberal arts curriculum, combined with small class sizes, allowed for highly personalised guidance, with professors deeply invested in each student's development. Lingnan community is uniquely collaborative, offering a wealth of opportunities for leadership, volunteering, and making a positive impact on society through its vibrant extracurricular programmes.
