

The Asia-Pacific Institute of Ageing Studies of Lingnan University and the Lingnan Institute of Further Education signed a Memorandum of Understanding to offer a “Professional Diploma in Health and Social Services” (Part-time)

The Asia-Pacific Institute of Ageing Studies of Lingnan University signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the Lingnan Institute of Further Education on 17 December 2020 to offer a “Professional Diploma in Health and Social Services (Part-time)”. The program, which combines the key elements of social services and innovative technology, aims to enhance professional development and equip students with practical skills to satisfy service users’ various needs.

The program includes various important courses such as Introduction to Dietetics and Nutrition, Leading and Managing Health and Social Services, Introduction to Rehabilitation Services and Healthcare-Technology Innovation. Graduates of this program are able to use their skills and knowledge to work in health care, social welfare and commercial settings.

For details of the course content, please visit the web-site: <https://life.ln.edu.hk/en/programme/post/390/9907/>