

CLE9099B Special Topic in CLE Cluster: Asians and Popular Culture

SUMMER TERM 2023

18 JULY - 4 AUGUST 2023

MON-FRI 9:30AM - 12:29PM

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will examine the ways in which Asians have been constituted in popular culture and have constituted themselves through popular culture.

INDICATIVE CONTENT

- The Model Minority Myth
- What is (and What is Not) Cultural Appropriation?
- Yellow Peril
- Yellowface
- Asian Femininities
- Asian Masculinities
- Racial Triangulation
- Korean Wave
- Global Hello Kitty
- Anime and Manga
- Japanese Hip-Hop
- Hong Kong Cinema
- Asian American Media Independence

Registration Period
(15/3-21/3)
CRN: 400

Prof. Sam Pack

Visiting Scholar, School of Interdisciplinary Studies

Prof. Pack is a professor of cultural anthropology at Kenyon College in the United States. His research interests address the relationship between media and culture and specifically focus on an anthropological approach to the production and reception of television, film, photographs and new media.