华南农业大学

South China Agricultural University

01 Introduction to SCAU

South China Agricultural University (SCAU) is enlisted in the Double First-Class Initiative of the Ministry of Education, China. Situated at Guangzhou, the “city of flowers”, the university enjoys beautiful scenery and pleasant environment. The campus covers an area of over 8211 mu (about 550 hectares), and the total gross floor area is about 1.4 million square meters.

The history of SCAU can be traced back to 1909 with the establishment of the Guangdong Agricultural Experimental Station. The university has formed valuable tradition and shaped distinguished features as reflected by the university motto “Integrity, Erudition, Practicality, Innovation”. A multi-layer educational system with graduate, undergraduate and continuing education is established. The university has 95 undergraduate programs, 13 primary disciplines authorized to confer doctorate degrees and 30 primary disciplines to confer master's degrees. There are 14 disciplines that rank ESI Global Top 1% while Plant & Animal Science and Agricultural Sciences rank among Global Top 1%.

The university is strong in its academic areas. The number of staff and faculty of the university is 3,342. There are 25 colleges (departments). The total enrollment of full-time students is over 50,000 (including international students), comprising more than 36,000 undergraduates and 14,000 graduates. The Chairman of the University Committee is Prof. Li Fengliang and the President is Prof. Xue Hongwei.

The teaching-research university embraces disciplines well coordinated in agriculture, engineering, sciences, liberal arts, history, economy, management, law studies and art. In the future, the university will strive to build into world first-class university with distinctive feature in agriculture.

08 International Cooperation

SCAU actively fosters a new framework for opening up, contributing to the building of a Community with a Shared Future for Mankind. To date, the University has signed 298 cooperation agreements or MOUs with 175 universities and research institutions across 49 countries and regions.

The Guangzhou Dublin International College of Life Sciences and Technology (GDIC), established as a formal Chinese-foreign joint educational institution approved by the Ministry of Education in 2020, is a high-profile strategic partnership between South China Agricultural University and University College Dublin, Ireland. GDIC focuses on sectors where both SCAU and UCD hold global prestige, particularly in agricultural science and food safety. The core majors include Biological Sciences, Horticulture, Food Quality and Safety.

As a member of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao University Alliance, SCAU spearheaded the establishment of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao University Alliance for Plant Scientists, fostering increasingly robust academic exchanges with universities in Hong Kong, Macao, and Taiwan.

Furthermore, the University has been approved to lead the development of the Belt and Road International Science and Technology Innovation Institute for Green Control of Agricultural Pests, as well as the China-Pakistan Soybean Industry Science and Technology Innovation Institute. The UNDP, FAO and WFC have attached great importance to the university and established the Regional Sericulture Training Center for Asia and Pacific and the China International Center for Agricultural Training at SCAU.

The China-Latin America Agricultural Education and Research Innovation Alliance (CLAERIA), established by SCAU, has gained significant international influence, attracting 80 member institutions from China and Latin American countries. In collaboration with the Center for Language Education and Cooperation (CLEC) of the Ministry of Education and universities in Brazil, Mexico, the University has co-founded the world's first batch of Chinese + Agricultural Education and Technology Development Centers.
