Words from our Alumni

As someone who returned to school after working for several years, I particularly cherish my learning experience at eBSCM. The courses were not only practical but also cutting-edge. Our professors shared the latest insights and business case studies in supply chain management and e-commerce, which allowed me to step beyond the confines of my daily work and gain a new understanding of the driving forces and direction of industry change.

I particularly want to highlight the Business Data Analytics and Project Management courses. The data analysis tools and project management methods I learned didn't end with the course completion. Instead, they continue to provide value in my current work—whether in optimizing processes, analyzing data, or promoting cross-departmental collaboration—making me more efficient and better organized.

Looking back, the time I spent studying in the eBSCM programme was not only an update of my knowledge but also a transformation of my thinking. For those who are pursuing careers in supply chain and e-commerce, I believe eBSCM is an excellent choice!

Ms ZHUO Siying
MSc eBSCM Student Graduated in 2025
Senior Project Engineer of Siemens Ltd (HK)

What started as a “let's give it a try” moment became an amazing journey when I participated in the National Sales Competition campus selection. Over five weeks, Professor Tang Cheng guided us through meticulously designed workshops, building a solid foundation that gave me the confidence to face any challenge during the national sales competition.

This year, I also had the opportunity to join a study tour in Singapore, where I immersed myself in the local culture, visited companies, and gained a deeper understanding of how business knowledge is applied on a global stage. This experience taught me that learning goes beyond textbooks—it's about stepping out of your comfort zone time and time again. Each experience shapes a better version of myself, and it leaves me filled with excitement for the future!
