Being a peer mentor was not just a job, like a part-time role at university, helping freshmen settle down and adjust to university life. Instead, we became close friends and shared many happy moments together. We talked to each other when we were happy and when we were sad – it didn't matter.

I remember one day when we gathered for a meal, and a waiter suddenly came over and started singing "Happy Birthday" to me. That was when I realised the next day was my birthday. Yes, my mentees had planned it, and I was really touched. My dear mentees, I couldn't have completed the programme so successfully and smoothly without you.

Anyway, my time as a peer mentor was truly memorable. I learned a lot, and I believe it will also be a meaningful and rewarding experience for all of you.

My exchange in Belgium was a transformative journey that far exceeded my initial expectations. This opportunity was not only a chance to study abroad but also a valuable experience to step out of my comfort zone, broaden my horizons. Beyond academic learning, I cherished every opportunity to travel across Europe during my free time. As this was my first visit to Europe, every journey felt fresh, eye opening, and deeply meaningful. I have become more confident, independent, and open-minded, and I have gained a deeper understanding of international communication and cultural diversity.

Living in the hostel not only provided me with a comfortable and supportive environment to study and rest but also allowed me to build closer relationships with friends and peers from different disciplines. We shared laughter, exchanged ideas, and encouraged one another during stressful times such as midterms and exams.

One thing I appreciate most is the sense of independence and self-discipline that hostel life cultivates. Managing daily routines such as budgeting, cleaning, and organising my schedule has taught me how to live responsibly and efficiently. At the same time, living on campus made it convenient to attend night events and workshops, such as the Emcee Workshop and sports team training, without worrying about transportation. Overall, hostel life has truly enriched my university experience – providing not only a place to stay but also a community where I can grow, learn, and create lasting friendships. I would highly recommend new students to experience this rewarding journey.

When I first entered Lingnan, I thought my experience would be defined mainly by lectures, assignments, and exams. However, I soon discovered that the community services I joined played an even greater role in shaping my growth. Each service offered valuable lessons, meaningful friendships, and unforgettable experiences that enriched my university life far beyond academics.

One of the first community services I joined was Project X. I learned that leadership is not about giving commands, but about listening, supporting others, and bringing people together.

Moreover, serving as an executive committee member of the University YMCA (Lingnan University) further strengthened my leadership skills and allowed me to connect with peers from different universities. Through participating in various activities such as visiting elderly centres during Christmas, I witnessed the happiness and appreciation from the beneficiaries.

Looking back, joining community services here was one of the most rewarding decisions I have made. These experiences equipped me with leadership skills, empathy, and cultural awareness, and reminded me that university life is about contributing to others.

Lingnan Foundation W.T. Chan Fellowships Program

- Administered by the University of California, Berkeley and the University of Southern California
- Residing in Los Angeles or the San Francisco Bay Area to foster personal and professional growth through:
  - Leadership opportunities
  - Educational enhancement
  - Community service
  - Inter-cultural immersion

The Lingnan Foundation W.T. Chan Fellowships Program allowed me to immerse myself in American culture while interning at the Museum of Tolerance in Los Angeles for five months. This unforgettable experience enriched me academically, culturally, and personally, while broadening my perspective and encouraging me to engage with social issues in my community.

Beyond the internship, I completed a project on raising human rights awareness among youth in Mongolia, applying skills gained from my internship in the U.S. I especially valued our weekly meetings with fellow students at my host institution – University of Southern California, where we shared ideas and supported one another through challenges. These sessions reminded me that I was part of a strong, caring community.

Most importantly, it offers valuable opportunities to connect with people from diverse backgrounds, including host families, colleagues, and local communities, whose experiences continue to inspire my growth. I highly recommend this programme to anyone seeking to broaden their horizons and contribute meaningfully.

ENKHTUVSHIN Emujin
(Year 4 student, BSocSc-Economics)

On the occasion of International Women's Day, I was blessed with an extraordinary opportunity to represent the Consulate General of Belgium as Consul General for a Day.

With the emphasis on celebrating the achievements and resilience of women, I engaged in meaningful conversations with remarkable women leaders from the World Bank, the IMF, the Hong Kong Federation of Women's Centres, Bethune House, and the Consulate of Belgium. We had a great luncheon at The Helena May, where we were moved by the powerful speech on breaking gender barriers and facing every challenge with courage.

Special thanks to Deputy Consul General Eva Morre and the Belgian Consulate team for gifting me an unforgettable day and a beautiful cup from the Magritte Museum that I will always cherish as a symbol of this empowering experience.

The Lingnan Host Family Scheme has unexpectedly become a memorable part of my university experience. My host father, Jacky, had also just joined Lingnan, which made our connection even more special. From our very first meeting at the kick-off reception, we developed a strong bond that has continued to grow throughout the programme.

Jacky often shares his experiences and insights about maintaining a balanced lifestyle – reminding us to stay active through sports, games, and regular exercise. His encouragement and care extend beyond activities; he consistently checks in about my studies, well-being, and campus life. We also exchange stories about our backgrounds and have meaningful conversations on life and growth.

Being part of the Host Family Scheme enriched my time at Lingnan in countless ways. It gave me not only guidance and cultural understanding but also a meaningful friendship that continues to inspire me.

Looking back now, I realise that Lingnan didn't just give me an education. It gave me a home. It gave me a learning environment where studying became a collaborative journey, opportunities that took me from the classroom to communities across the world, and friendships that turned a foreign city into somewhere I truly belong. That young person who arrived here nervous and alone gradually found her footing and her voice. I found a space that nurtured my curiosity and transformed it into confidence. I want to express our deepest gratitude to Lingnan University and to the generous donors who make awards possible. Your belief in the power of education transforms lives.

It was a great honour to be recognised by both my teachers and peers during my university years, and through election, I was appointed as the Student Member of the Lingnan University Council.

In addition to participating in the formal and meaningful council meetings and daily affairs, I also joined our team on visits to universities in Beijing, China, the Immigration Department, the Legislative Council, and more.

What left the deepest impression on me was the opportunity to leverage my abilities and passion to serve as a bridge of communication between the university and our fellow students, enabling us, as members of the university community, to take a more active part in university affairs.

A Must to Know

Learning Guidelines and Academic Regulations

Guidelines for Learning

As a community with emphasis on the Liberal Arts ethos, Lingnan aims to foster in its students, aside from a strong academic foundation, qualities such as a strong sense of social responsibility, mutual respect and consideration. To achieve this aim, students are expected to exemplify behaviour consistent with these values in all facets of their university life – in classrooms, in hostels, in the library, and in all kinds of campus activity. While the freedom and autonomy of individual students are respected, a sense of social responsibility would suggest the following guidelines.

Students should demonstrate respect for academic staff, non-academic staff and fellow students. They are expected to be proactive in the learning process, and develop the following good practices, which are important for successful and effective learning:

1. Active learning. Students should be well prepared in mind and body for effective learning. They should be attentive in class, and be actively involved in learning activities, particularly in tutorials, seminars and case discussions. To facilitate active participation and effective learning, it is essential that students make the necessary preparation – for instance, completing the prescribed reading before class to enhance their learning. To thrive in the digital era, students are encouraged to develop digital literacy, utilise technology-enhanced tools (e.g., AI or Generative Artificial Intelligence (GAI) tools, mobile apps, and data analytics), and cultivate self-motivation and a passion for lifelong learning to address contemporary global and local challenges.

2. Study hours. For each hour of class contact, the expectation is that students will undertake 2 additional hours of personal study. Personal study may include preparation for in-class activities, completing assignments, and / or revision, etc.

3. Class attendance. Attend all scheduled classes and activities. Teachers have prepared the teaching materials for each class according to the course syllabus. It will therefore not be possible for teachers to repeat the materials to students who are absent from a class. Those who are absent have the responsibility to obtain the relevant teaching materials from fellow students / MOODLE and to undertake the make-up work as appropriate. If students feel that some classes are uninteresting, or that the material is beyond their grasp, they should voice their concerns via the relevant channels (e.g. talking to the teachers directly, expressing their views at Mid-Term Online Course Teaching and Learning Enhancement and the Staff-Student Consultation Committee) available for this purpose.

4. Punctuality. Students who are late for class will affect the progress of teaching and learning for themselves and their fellow students. Therefore those who are late may, at the discretion of the instructor, be barred from the classroom.

5. Self-discipline. Students should refrain from behaviour that adversely affects instructors' teaching and other students' learning, such as talking, chatting, whispering, sleeping, using mobile phones for non-academic activities or eating in class. In the context of digital learning, students are expected to use digital devices and GAI tools responsibly and ethically, adhering to course-specific guidelines on their permitted use, if any.

6. Personal integrity and academic honesty. The University is a place of learning. Students should uphold the highest standards of honesty in academics and all university-related activities, including coursework, examinations, and research and should not copy assignments, coursework, projects or dissertations. These acts constitute plagiarism, which will be referred to the Board of Examiners concerned.

7. Intercultural experience. Mutual respect is a key to successful intercultural communication. On the occasions with the presence of non-local students, whether in classrooms or in informal interaction, students should be considerate and adopt a common language as far as practicable. A positive, open dialogue is always conducive to cross-cultural learning and intercultural understanding.

Senate: Approved revisions in March 2026

Academic Regulations and Other Guidelines for Undergraduate Programmes

All undergraduate students are required to comply with the University's rules and regulations. For details, please refer to the Regulations and Guidelines on the Registry website:

Plagiarism

What It Is and How to Avoid It?

Definition and examples adapted from Writing Tutorial Services, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN (Source: https://tutoring.indiana.edu/writing/index.html)

What Is Plagiarism?

- Plagiarism is using others' ideas and words without clearly acknowledging the source of that information

How Can Students Avoid Plagiarism?

- Avoid plagiarism, you must give credit whenever you use another person's idea, opinion, or theory
- Any facts, statistics, graphs, drawings – any pieces of information – that are not common knowledge
- Quotations of another person's actual spoken or written words; or paraphrase of another person's spoken or written words

Generative AI Tools Usage Guidelines

Declaration:

- From Term 2, 2024-25, students may use generative AI (GAI) tools to support their studies unless informed otherwise by their teaching staff
- Students must declare the use of GAI tools in their assignments and assessments using the sample template provided in the "Best Practices for Ethical and Responsible Use of GAI Tools in Course Assessments" (issued by the then Teaching and Learning Centre in Term 1, 2023-24) *The Teaching and Learning Centre was renamed the Centre for Innovative Teaching and Learning w.e.f. 27 May 2026
- Sample Declaration:
  - "I / We (name(s)) declare that Generative AI tool(s) has / have been used to prepare the submitted work for course and assignment / assessment."

Citation:

- Students should use proper referencing for written assignments, projects, and reports, preferably following APA style or other accepted formats (e.g., Chicago style) as approved by their academic units

Academic Integrity:

- All submitted work must comply with Lingnan University's examination and coursework regulations, which prohibit plagiarism. Violations will result in serious consequences
- Students must not present GAI-generated work (in part or whole) as their own, as this constitutes a violation of academic integrity
- For assignments where GAI tools are permitted, failure to declare their use will be deemed academic dishonesty
- For assignments where GAI tools are prohibited, submitting GAI-generated work will also be considered academic dishonesty

Potential Biases:

- Students should be aware of potential biases, inaccuracies, intellectual property rights, and limitations of GAI tools. Responsible and ethical use is crucial to maintaining academic integrity

Students Should NOT:

- Directly copy and paste a paragraph without making any changes
- Treat the content generated by GAI as your own work
- Copy the reference list from the online source (including GAI) when using significant data and information
- Use GAI to summarise a report or paragraph without citation to the original source or declare the use of GAI

Unacceptable and Acceptable Paraphrases

Here's the ORIGINAL text, from page 1 of Lizzie Borden: A Case Book of Family and Crime in the 1890s by Joyce Williams et al.:

- The rise of industry, the growth of cities, and the expansion of the population were the three great developments of late nineteenth century American history. As new, larger, steam-powered factories became a feature of the American landscape in the East, they transformed farm hands into industrial laborers, and provided jobs for a rising tide of immigrants. With industry came urbanization the growth of large cities (like Fall River, Massachusetts, where the Bordens lived) which became the centers of production as well as of commerce and trade.

Here's an UNACCEPTABLE paraphrase that is plagiarism:

- The increase of industry, the growth of cities, and the explosion of the population were three large factors of nineteenth century America. As steam-driven companies became more visible in the eastern part of the country, they changed farm hands into factory workers and provided jobs for the large wave of immigrants. With industry came the growth of large cities like Fall River where the Bordens lived which turned into centers of commerce and trade as well as production.

Plagiarism

What makes this passage plagiarism?
The preceding passage is considered plagiarism for two reasons:

- The writer has only changed around a few words and phrases, or changed the order of the original's sentences
- The writer has failed to cite a source for any of the ideas or facts

If you do either or both of these things, you are plagiarising.

Unacceptable and Acceptable Paraphrases

Here's an ACCEPTABLE paraphrase:

- Fall River, where the Borden family lived, was typical of northeastern industrial cities of the nineteenth century. Steam-powered production had shifted labor from agriculture to manufacturing, and as immigrants arrived in the US, they found work in these new factories. As a result, populations grew, and large urban areas arose. Fall River was one of these manufacturing and commercial centers (Williams 1).

Why is this passage acceptable?
This is acceptable paraphrasing because the writer:

- Accurately relays the information in the original using her own words
- Let her reader know the source of her information

Strategies for Avoiding Plagiarism

- Put in quotations everything that comes directly from the text especially when taking notes
- Paraphrase, but be sure you are not just rearranging or replacing a few words. Write the idea in your own words without peeking
- Check your paraphrase against the original text to be sure you have not accidentally used the same phrases or words, and that the information is accurate
- When using GAI tools, always verify the information and cite appropriately
- Keep records of how GAI tools were used in your work for declaration purposes

Online Tutorial on Plagiarism Awareness

- The online tutorial with videos and exercises is designed to help you understand what plagiarism is, how to avoid it and how to become a better writer. It will take you approximately one hour to finish it with additional materials and resources provided for your further studies at the end of the tutorial. Completion will be indicated by ticking the check-box at the end of the course.
- All research postgraduate (RPg) and taught postgraduate (TPg) students admitted from the 2026-27 intake are required to complete this online tutorial by the end of the first month of their studies in Lingnan. If postgraduate students fail to complete the requirement by the end of the first month of their studies, the Programme Office / Department concerned may delete their courses registered.
- UG students are required to complete this online tutorial ideally by the end of the first year of study or they will be blocked from course registration for the coming academic year.

Sexual Harassment

What Is Sexual Harassment?

The Sex Discrimination Ordinance ("SDO") defines two forms of sexual harassment:

1. Unwelcome sexual conduct targeting a person
   Engaging in the conduct of a sexual nature in relation to a person, where the conduct:
   - is unwelcome to that person;
   - includes making a sexual advance or a request for sexual favours to the person; and
   - a reasonable third person, having regard to all the circumstances, would have anticipated that the person would be offended, humiliated or intimidated by the conduct.
2. Sexual conduct creating a sexually hostile or intimidating environment
   Engaging in the conduct of a sexual nature, where the conduct:
   - does not have to be directed at a person;
