Brief Course Description:
This course examines the concept of love in Chinese and Western literature. Literary works will be selected for a critical analysis of different concepts of love and their implications. The course discusses love as an ideological construction and its relation to gender and sexuality, exploring the cultural similarities and differences between Chinese and Western societies. The literary works will be studied with reference to a number of literary and cultural theories.

Language of instruction: English / Chinese

Aims:
The course aims to enhance students’ understanding of the cultural similarities and differences between Chinese and Western society in the concept of love. It allows students to develop a critical appreciation towards Chinese and Western literature, and to understand the relation between literature and translation.

Learning Outcomes (LOs):
Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:
1. conduct literary analysis;
2. discuss literature through a cross-cultural and comparative approach;
3. describe the similarities and differences of Chinese and Western cultures and cultural values;
4. identify the classical roots and historical development of both East and West on the subject of love; and
5. demonstrate the ability to think critically.

Indicative Content:
1. Love as an ideological construction.
2. Love and its relation to sexuality.
3. Love and gender ambiguity.
4. Love and its relation to patriarchy.
5. Literary and cultural theories relating to love, gender and sexuality.

Teaching Method:
Lectures and tutorial discussions
Measurement of Learning Outcomes:
Students’ progress towards the learning outcomes will be measured by means of:
1. Presentation and participation in discussion during lectures and tutorials; [LOs 1-5]
2. An essay that requires the skills of literary criticism and textual analysis, and an understanding of the relation between translation and literature appreciation; [LOs 1-5]
3. An examination with questions that test the students’ ability for textual analysis, with emphasis on the comparison between Chinese and Western literature on the subject of love and its implications. [LOs 1-5]

Assessment:
Examination: 50% (One 2-hour paper)
Tutorial participation: 15%
One term paper: 35%

Important Notes:

(1) Students are expected to spend a total of 9 hours (i.e. 3 hours of class contact and 6 hours of personal study) per week to achieve the course learning outcomes.

(2) Students shall be aware of the University regulations about dishonest practice in course work, tests and examinations, and the possible consequences as stipulated in the Regulations Governing University Examinations. In particular, plagiarism, being a kind of dishonest practice, is “the presentation of another person’s work without proper acknowledgement of the source, including exact phrases, or summarised ideas, or even footnotes/citations, whether protected by copyright or not, as the student’s own work”. Students are required to strictly follow university regulations governing academic integrity and honesty.

(3) Students are required to submit writing assignment(s) using Turnitin.

(4) To enhance students’ understanding of plagiarism, a mini-course “Online Tutorial on Plagiarism Awareness” is available on https://pla.ln.edu.hk/
